Amazon 5.0 out of 5 stars And those baseball fans out there, XM will have EACH and EVERY MLB game starting from the spring training up to to the world series. It doesnt matter if youre a Dodgers fan living in NYC or your local market does not play your team there are no blackouts where they block the game, youll hear your team. Did I mention XM has FOUR channels with Christmas songs. One with tradational, another with contemporary, another with country and the last my favorite is songs like the Chipmonks, Muppets, Barney, you know all those nontradational songs we all love. Plus you can hit the memory button and itll store it for you. XM has a VERY strong signal stronger than any other, so much that I have the antenna on top of the table in my bedroom signal must go through walls, and part of another house to reach me. You either get the signal again Ill bet you will or you dont. Just be sure to face the antenna south if youre using it in the house. What I like about XM is the upcoming MLB trust me youll hear more about this as spring comes, and the receiver allows you to keep 20 channels. XM is the only one that has this. And you get a remote control that gives you FULL control of your radio, including the volume. Even has a mute button. Personally I enjoy listening either with the lights out or dimmed down as XM lights up and the information on the screen and buttons make it very calming and cool to watch while listening to my favorite shows. You cant go wrong with this receiver. Nor will you find this price anywhere. Look around at your local stores or other online stores. Its basically for free! I used this radio during that time and it works fine. However, I no longer listen to XM. I mostly bought it for a few specific stations and last year, those stations stopped being as good. You can manage your XM account online with one exception You have to call to cancel your account, and you cannot call 24 hours a day; they have 95 Eastern business hours. Would you really want to buy a product from someone who laughs at you when you have an issue. Just use Pandora and save yourself the aggravation. Did you trash it!! It was made, in such a fashion, that it would only fit the speakers made by them. Not knowing this, I ordered the wrong speakers and lost money on the deal. I say again. COLOR ME PISSED OFF!!! Its when you get the service and the bitter realization that you have 200 stations of nothing, thats a problem. The reception is lost fairly easily if it is cloudy or raining, it will make the reception spotty. Clouds have ruined my reception.

I didnt know much about it, but upon a little research believe the original owner either purchased the lifetime subscription or maybe it is so old they dont send out the kill signal anymore. Well, unfortunately, a week ago I left it outside, forgot about it overnight and it was rained on. From what I can tell the boombox doesnt work anymore, but, the SA50000 appears to work fine.

Im having a hard time finding information on the internet since this is an early 2000s unit, I believe, but I thought I may get lucky posting here. Here is a picture from the internet of what it looks like A few of my questions include Are there any other worthwhile speakers to connect to it other than the Delphi Boombox that you are aware of. Dont want to call and risk losing it. Any other thoughts or advice that might be helpful would be appreciated. As for the receiver, as long as it works, you can get a replacement boombox. Or you can get a home kit, hook up your own speakers and still be able to listen. Either way, my suggestion is just get it going again and listen for as long as you can. Thank you very much for sharing your knowledge. I will look into the home kit, which I didnt know about until now I only knew of the boombox. Speaking of the boombox, do you happen to know if there are any other boombox models other than my SA10001, which got soaked. No use tracking down a Delphi boombox if the stiletto was superior. Thank you for the feedback. It can be charged and you can walk around with it. Plug in some headphones and go nuts. It can also be used like a regular satellite radio in the car or home. I owned one and loved it. Now you've got me thinking. In order for it to work with my boombox, before the rain incident, the built in antenna on the boombox had to be pointed to the satellite ever so perfectly. However, After the rain incident, no matter where I pointed the boombox antenna, I couldn't get any change in the bars showing the antenna signal strength on the unit. I believe and trust what you're saying, just don't know how you can walk around with it if it didn't work with the boombox antenna. Is it a settings issue or maybe need a factory reset. I'm play around with it tomorrow and see if I can post any updates. May use the headphone cord. Pull it out, use headphones and you will be able to get a signal and enjoy.

My radio receiver unit Model SA50000 has no place to directly connect headphones or no indication that it can be charged, unless I have completely missed it and should be declared clinically blind and an electronics degenerate. As a result, I don't want to sound unappreciative or dismissive regarding your advice or question your expertise, but, if you are correct, I must be missing something very obvious and I'm still trying to determine the best way to proceed.
